What are the benefits?

- The Community Resilience Tracker monitors a community's progress in becoming trauma-informed by tracking milestones that organizations achieve on their journey.
- The Tracker helps communities define their successes with quantitative outcome data, to identify progress and gaps.
- Training is tailored to the needs of affiliate members.
- In a collaborative, affiliates can share best and worst practices, and assist each other.

What's the cost?

Initiatives pay $5,000 a year* to participate.

That's a fraction of the cost for an individual initiative to develop and manage a community resilience tracker or provide coaching and training.*

What are the requirements to join?

- A demonstrated six-month history as an ACEs initiative.
- Cross-sector representation of at least four sectors (e.g., education, law enforcement, healthcare, faith-based).
- A committee responsible for interacting with ACEs Connection, to handle the affiliate agreement, payment, etc..
- An MOU (or similar) with the organizations and individual members of their ACEs initiative.
- At least one community manager, paid or volunteer.
