

RESTORING YOUTH THROUGH COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

The District Attorney's Office in partnership with National Conflict Resolution Center are working together to divert San Diego County youth ages 12 to 17 from the juvenile justice system to community providers residing in their neighborhoods for therapeutic and rehabilitative services needed to support them in avoiding future harm and contact with the juvenile justice system.

SEEKING

Community-Based Organizations to provide services such as one on one mentoring, skill building, pro-social activities, life skills and substance abuse treatment where youth live that are ethnic, gender, cultural, linguistic, economic, refugee and immigrant appropriate.
