Protective Factors: Strengthening Children, Families and Communities

Friday, May 29, 2020
10:00-11:30 am

Description: In Safe & Sound's 90-minute webinar, presented by Chief Executive Officer Katie Albright and Senior Clinical Projects Director Malcolm Gaines, we will explore the following:

- The relationship between individual, family and community risk factors and protective factors for primary and secondary prevention of early childhood adversities
- Participants' experience using protective factors in their work
- Using protective factor assessments as an essential part of engaging clients and delivering trauma-informed care.
- The cost of child abuse in California and your own county and using the information to inform policy makers about the importance of prevention; and
- Understanding community protective factors to strengthen families.

By the conclusion of the webinar, participants will have concrete strategies to:

- Name individual-level and community-level protective factors, particularly in early childhood.
- Describe how individual protective factors can serve as outcomes and guide service planning in a family support setting.
- Describe how to administer a protective factors assessment and use it to design a collaborative service plan.
- Name some implications of a protective factors model for program design and performance management.
- Identify both community-level risk factors and protective factors, and consider ways to improve them locally
